

Faculty and Staff Giving

For Rice. By Rice.

As a Rice employee (past or present), you are one of the university's greatest advocates. Through the "For Rice. By Rice." initiative, you can play an even larger role in the life of the university. We invite you to learn more about Development and Alumni Relations and discover how, with other faculty and staff members, you can help ensure Rice continues to be one of the top places to both study and work.

The Impact of Faculty and Staff Giving

In fiscal year 2017, 985 Rice faculty, staff and retirees joined together to contribute nearly $2 million to the university. By making a gift, you express your belief in Rice's mission and actively support our long-standing culture of excellence. Faculty and staff participation plays an important role in ensuring the university's success.

The Rice Annual Fund

The Rice Annual Fund is the university's most powerful giving vehicle, providing immediate-use funding for academic initiatives, financial assistance, campus life and student success. The majority of employees who make gifts to Rice choose to do so through the Annual Fund.

Why Does My Gift Matter?

Does my gift really make a difference?

Yes! The more people who choose to give, the greater the collective impact will be. In Rice's 2017 fiscal year, over 14,000 donors made gifts of $250 or less to the Rice Annual Fund, which contributed more than $994,000 in support.

I work at Rice; why should I also give money to the university?

Gifts to Rice have a powerful effect on the university's ability to remain a top-tier institution. It is hard to ask the community to support the university if we don't believe in our work enough to invest in it ourselves.

Corporations and foundations look for high levels of support from our faculty and staff when making funding decisions, as well.

Please note: Rice is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization and all gifts are tax-deductible.

Students pay tuition. Why does Rice need charitable support?

It may be surprising, but tuition covers less than half of the actual cost of a Rice education. Rice's endowment and gifts to the university help cover much of the remaining cost. You might think of donations as silent scholarships provided by generations of Rice alumni, parents, employees and friends, and even those who pay full tuition have benefited.

Become Part of the Team

Each year, passionate current and retired Rice employees volunteer their time as "Voices for Rice" to support student life and learning.

Rice's endowment is so large. Why should I give?

Rice is fortunate to have a large endowment, but endowment earnings cover less than half of the university's annual operating budget. To provide the highest quality education for current students while ensuring the long-term stability of the university, Rice must utilize only a portion of the endowment's value each year rather than spending it down over time. So, while the endowment does a lot of the heavy lifting, the philanthropic support of alumni, parents, employees and friends continues to play a significant role in maintaining the university's excellence.

I donated during the United Way Campaign. Is this counted in the Faculty/Staff campaign totals?

The United Way campaign supports nonprofits in the Houston community. Gifts made during the United Way campaign are not included in "For Rice. By Rice." totals.
